

Radio One

Sweden: Bild & Ljud Hemma, December, 2009. Test of table radios.

“WIRELESS MUSIC IN MANY WAYS”

“Radio One has no internet radio, but we can’t help love what it has instead: wireless playback from mobiles and computers.”

“...it’s alone to have Bluetooth. Besides it has a excellent RDS FM Radio and alarm which fits well the slender format. The construction is very good and the leather cover makes it look luxurios. On the back is Line in, headphone jack and subwoofer out.”

“With a few buttons you can choose source, browse and set alarm with the navigation wheel, which you make every choice with. The screen is small but it isn’t used so much. Instead you can sit by the computer and easily find right track in your favorite program. Or stay in the sofa and choose your music with the mobile.”

“...it has even a very good sound for it’s petite size. If you add a subwoofer you will get a complete wireless music system.”

Table radios in the test:

Grundig Cosmopolit 7
Jensen Media:Link 1157
Logitech Squeezebox Radio
Philips Streamium NP2900
Sangean RCR-7WF
Scott RXi 400 WL
Terratec Noxon iRadio Cube
Tivoli Audio Networks

Advantage

Bluetooth
Good reception
Good soundquality

Disadvantage

No internet radio
No media player
No remote

 audio pro

SOUND OF SCANDINAVIA